The Virgin Islands
Remember Alaska
When Soldiers Rise
Heavenly Public Property

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRESIDENT HOOVER returned from the Virgin Islands depressed about that territory purchased from Denmark. He said the islands were "a poorhouse" and had no value except a possible usefulness in protecting the Panama canal. Such usefulness in war might justify buying the islands.

That "poorhouse" condition is not our fault, but ours. The islands were prosperous, manufacturing rum from their sugar cane. Pernicious prohibition killed that industry and impoverished the islands. It is as though Denmark had sought the southern states as slaves and forbidden them to raise cotton or had bought Detroit and forbidden manufacture of automobiles.

* * *

HOWEVER, nobody knows better than Mr. Hoover, who developed wealth from the ground all over the world, that you can't condemn any piece of land from surface indications. When Seward bought Alaska from Russia for $8,000,000 that transaction was called "Seward's folly."

We bought Alaska really, to have an excuse for handing some money to corrupt Russian officials, disguising the transaction as a business affair. The Russians had valued Alaska for its catch of sea otters, prized by nobles as a lining for their coats. When the otter catch fell off, they were willing to sell and Seward was laughed at for buying.

* * *

READ THESE FIGURES, provided by C. E. Garfield of the Seattle chamber of commerce, as to what the United States has got out of that Alaskan $8,000,000 purchase:

We have taken from Alaska in gold, silver, copper, tin, lead and other metals $636,385,659 since we bought the land in 1867. We have taken in fish products $861,603,353. We have taken in furs $124,884,772. Other millions in 'miscellaneous.' A grand total of one billion six hundred and thirty-two million seventy-nine thousand two hundred and fifty-three dollars for an investment of $8,000,000. And the wealth of that great territory has hardly been scratched.

Get real estate, a corner lot, well located, or a great country like Alaska and take care of it; you won't regret it.

There is no knowing what we will find in those Virgin Islands when the well diggers, and others, attack them.

* * *

AT EASTER DAWN, President Hoover, up before the sun, attended services at the tomb of the unknown soldier. The world will never identify any of those unknown soldiers. Our may have been born in Italy, Scandinavia, Germany, Ireland—anywhere. And, whoever he is, he might be surprised should he arise at midnight and see all the wreaths on his tomb.

Perhaps at the last day all the unknown soldiers, resplendent in the glory of heroism, will stand, side by side, before their judge, their names, origins and deeds related as they receive the homage of all that have died since the beginning of the earth.

It would be a strange gathering, assuming that our pugnacious ancestors of the earlier periods were among those present.

CHICAGO ENDS CAMPAIGN FOR MAYOR'S POST

Both Parties Confident as Bitter Race for Office Comes to Close.

MILLION VOTES FORECAST

Future Status of "Big Bill" Thompson Depends on Outcome of Election.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7—Chicago was deciding today whether Mayor William Hale Thompson can be toppled from the mayor's chair.

Preliminary estimates fixed at more than 1,000,000 the number of persons voting to decide if "Big Bill," the self-styled builder, or Anton J. Cermak, immigrant miner, shall rule America's second city.

Thompson carried the Republican banner and Cermak the Democratic.

Both candidates told voters Chicago's future is the big issue, Thompson charging that the influence of Cermak, who is chairman of the county board, has "besmirched the name of Cook county," while Cermak demanded that the voters "clean out the city hall" and free the city from gangsters.

Use Same Battle Cry

Thompson, although formally indorsed, claimed the support of the non-partisan Better Government association, which asked, "shall we establish a Chicago Tammany?" A cry which was reiterated by Thompson's followers.

Predictions of victory were reiterated by the camps of both candidates, the Democrats claiming their man would win by 150,000 or more, while Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman declared Thompson would be returned the victor by 50,000.

Starting out mildly, the campaign wound up last night with bitter words coming from both sides, but in spite of this officials were not looking for any outburst of election disorders. The state attorney's office and police joines forces to maintain order from the opening of the polls at 6 a. m. until their close at 4 p. m.

League Employs Watchers

More than 1,000 special watchers of the Voters' Non-Partisan league were stationed at various polling places.

"Big Bill," sometimes referred to as Chicago's "cowboy mayor" and regarded as a master showman of American politics, said it was his last campaign, regardless of whether he is elected as the World's Fair mayor. Some of the leaders of his party, including former Senator Charles S. Deneen, failed to come out openly for him, but despite this the mayor claimed the results would show that they had supported him, rather than take chances on a Democratic victory.

If Thompson is elected it will be his fourth term as mayor. He rode through a tornado of political fireworks in the Feb. 24 primary with a plurality of 67,841 over Judge John H. Lyle, the self-styled "gangster nemesis," and Alderman A. F. Albert.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 7—Oklahoma city chooses between John Calloway Walton—"Rarin' Jack"—and C. J. Blinn for mayor today.

Children Escape as School Building Burns

By The Associated Press

SIDNEY, O., April 7—With Big Run school six miles west of here enveloped in flames yesterday, 21 school children marched in orderly fashion to safety a few minutes before the roof fell in. Miss Dorothy Stockstill, teacher, burned her hands attempting to save a few books. The fire was unnoticed until a blazing shingle fell in the classroom.

OPPONENTS IN CHICAGO RACE

Mayor William Hale Thompson (right), Republican, is before the voters of Chicago today for reelection at the windup of what he says will be his last fight for the mayor's job. His Democratic opponent is Anton J. Cermak, (left) who has won county elections by large majorities. Both sides are claiming victory as voters of the country's second largest city go to the polls today.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL REPORTED HEIRESS

Miss Monnette Refuses To Confirm or Deny Rumor of Million Dollar Bequest.

By International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., April 7—Miss Alice Louise Monnette, Cleveland nurse and former resident of Marion, O., was content today to permit a rumor that she had been bequeathed approximately a million dollars by an uncle in California to remain just a rumor.

Questioned by International News Service, the girl, who left Marion three years ago to study nursing at Charity hospital here, would neither confirm or deny the report of her large inheritance.

The uncle,—whose will was reported to have listed the million dollars for the former Marion girl, died in California last week. She admitted his death, but was unwilling to discuss further any connection she might have with the deceased man's estate or even divulge his name.

"My uncle was very close to me," Miss Monnette said. "And I do not care to make any statement whatever regarding his estate.

"His death was a great blow to me and I consider anything about him a personal matter. I don't see why anyone must know about my connections with him but myself," she stated.

Unwilling to give an official statement in regard to the inheritance, Miss Monnette said she was "willing to have the reports and rumors continue as they are."

The girl, a graduate of St. Mary's High school at Marion, formerly resided north of Marion on the Marion-Bucyrus road, and later on Baker street.

Miss Monnette said she recently resigned her position as a nurse at Charity hospital because of illness. She has been residing with an aunt at 498 East 125th street, Cleveland.

The uncle referred to in the story above is the late Mervin J. Monnette, former resident of Bucyrus and founder of the Monnette Memorial hospital in that city. His death occurred March 29 in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Monnette went from Bucyrus to Goldfield, Nev., a number of years ago, where he made a fortune in a gold rush. He bequeathed the Monnette family homestead to the city of Bucyrus for a hospital and endowed the institution.

Relatives of Miss Monnette here stated today that they knew nothing of the young woman's reported inheritance.

FALL NOT LIKELY TO CARRY CASE HIGHER

Former Cabinet Official Says Appeal "Remotely Possible."

By The Associated Press

THREE RIVERS, N. M., April 7—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was debating today the advisability of appealing from a decsion of the District of Columbia court of appeals affirming his conviction of taking a bribe in the California naval oil lease transaction with Edward L. Doheny.

Mr. Fall said it was "remotely possible" but not probable he would appeal to the supreme court. He said his decision would wait until he received a copy of the court's action. He awaited it at his Tres Rios ranch home.

The appellate court upheld the sentence of one year imprisonment and $100,000 fine against Fall, who served in the cabinet of President Harding.

"I am a poor man," he said, "and I have no money for further legal defense. Certainly I cannot pay the heavy fine."

"I am an old man, and for the last eight years I have known little but trouble. In many respects, the decision is a welcome relief, for the weight of suspense has been heavy."

He recalled that the ranch he once attempted to buy from Doheny was not his now.

"It is rented and my only income is from a small herd of beef cattle, and my wife sells some butter and milk in El Paso," he said.

"I am not guilty," he said

SETS DIVING RECORD

Navy Sub Nautilus Reaches Depth of 336 Feet in Tests.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 7—The fleet submarine Nautilus (V-6), which yesterday set a new U. S. navy record for deep sea diving, was bound for the New York navy yard today for examination. In her diving tests off the Isle of Shoals yesterday she reached a depth of 336 feet, four feet lower than her sister ship, V-5, went in a similar test last October.

The U. S. navy's Nautilus, which bears the same name as that of a submarine Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to use in an underseas polar expedition, ran the course and dived in the waters between Boone island and the Isle of Shoals for nearly three hours. She was in touch with the submarine rescue ship Falcon by means of an underwater sound and listening device during the tests.

MARION MAN WOUNDED BY REVOLVER SHOT

MISHAP IS ACCIDENTAL

Victim Was Cleaning Gun Thought Unloaded; Bullet Pierces Body.

Edward E. Shafer, 23, is in a critical condition at City hospital today as a result of a gun wound inflicted while he was cleaning a .32 caliber revolver.

Shafer was working in the kitchen of the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis K. Shafer of 1098 West Center street, last night about 11 p. m. The gun was accidentally discharged, according to police who investigated.

Shafer had put the gun in the top of a cupboard several weeks ago, according to his mother. The gun, she said, had not been cleaned. Last night he took it down and began to work on it. At the time he did not know that the revolver was loaded, his mother said today.

The bullet pierced the left side of his body and took an upward course through the abdomen and came out of his back near the spine.

Latest reports from the hospital report him resting comfortably, but with very little improvement.

A physician was called who treated the man at his home. He was later taken to the City hospital in the M. H. Gunder ambulance. Two brothers, Alfred and Hershel and one sister Rosella, were at home at the time of the accident.

Shafer is a welder and was formerly employed by the Osgood Co.

BLOOD-STAINED AUTO FOUND IN COLUMBUS

Police Link Car and Youth with Attempted Worthington Bank Robbery.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 7 — A stolen automobile, bearing the scars of bullets and blood stains, was recovered by police here today. Authorities expressed the belief that the machine was used by the bandit who attempted to rob the Worthington savings company at Worthington yesterday.

George Mitchell, 23, a farm youth who said he was looking for a "thrill" was held in the Delaware county jail. County officers said he confessed to the attempt to rob the Worthington bank and to a score of other robberies and holdups in Delaware county and the Columbus district. They explained the blood stains by saying that Mitchell, in leaving the bank when a burglar alarm sounded, cut his hands in breaking a window.

Another theory was that Mitchell was accompanied by a companion to Worthington, and that this companion was struck by bullets fired by a resident near the bank. If another man was involved, police believe he is dead, because of the great amount of blood on the seat beside the driver's place.

BUCKLEY DISBARRED FOR 6-MONTH PERIOD

Former State Treasurer Entitled to Leniency, Judge Decides.

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., April 7—Holding that a reprimand was insufficient and that a severe discipline was uncalled for in the case, Judge F. M. Clevenger of Wilmington today suspended Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, from practicing law for six months. The decision was rendered in connection with the disbarment proceedings instituted against Buckley by the Montgomery County Bar association.

Bert B. Buckley

Reviewing the evidence, Judge Clevenger said the specifications filed by the committee charged Buckley had been indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced to serve a term in a federal prison for violation of certain U. S. statutes.

Holding that a license to practice law, "is a valuable right, conferred by the state upon those of good moral character who have been specially trained in the science," the court pointed out that "from the foundation of our government, to the present time, the lawyer has occupied a high place not only in the estimation of the public generally but in actual participation in public affairs. The course jokes circulated about lawyers do not represent their standing with the real public. They are the bulwark of the success of most human activities, and are depended upon and trusted to a degree beyond that of any other secular profession."

"AUDIT" SHOWS DRY LAW GAIN

Woman's National Committee Submits Balance Sheet for 10 Years.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Md., April 7—Ten years of prohibition were audited today by the woman's national committee for law enforcement and profits found greater than losses.

A balance sheet covering 1920 to 1930 was submitted by the organization to answer dry law foes who have based their attack on what they saw as decreased income to the government and similar economic declines.

Gains Summed Up

In its recapitulation the study quoted the Wickersham commission report to show a total gain of "increased production, increased efficiency in labor, the elimination of blue Mondays, decrease in industrial accidents, increase in savings, and decrease in demands on charities and social agencies."

The accounting, which was headed "People of the United States in Account with Prohibition, Inc.," showed losses as:

One hundred and seventy thousand saloons; $363,000,000 in federal income taxes on $1,817,000,000 worth of liquor; 64 per cent decrease of liquor formerly drunk; 38 out of 50 "Keeley" cures and 60 out of 60 "Neal" cures closed; 10 to 60 per cent reduction in juvenile court cases; 54 per cent drop in number of children cared for by welfare associations; 50 per cent decrease in arrests for prostitution and 11 per cent drop in number of 18 to 20 year old boys sent to penal institutions.

Benefits Outlined

Listed as gains were: Two billion dollars in federal income taxes; $779,000,000 in automobile and gasoline taxes; 350,000 gasoline stations and 3,615 branch banks; 28 per cent increase in milk consumption; 30,000,000 new savings bank depositors; $88,000,000,000 more life insurance holdings; 400,000 new homes a year since 1921; 47 per cent more hotels, average wage increase of 25 per cent; 150 per cent rise in high school students; 30 per cent reduction in infant mortality; 300 per cent increase in college students.

FATHER, SEVEN CHILDREN DIE AS HOME BURNS

Poverty-Stricken Victims Are Trapped in Blazing Cabin Near Gallipolis.

NINTH IS BADLY BURNED

Injuries Likely To Prove Fatal to Lone Survivor of Tragedy.

By United Press.

GALLIPOLIS, O., April 7—James White, 59, a squatter, and seven of his eight children were burned to death today when fire swept their log cabin at Swan Creek on the banks of the Ohio river, 10 miles south of here.

The dead, in addition to White, are Mary, 20; James, 18; John 14; Ira, 9; May, 5, and twin girls, Nora and Dora, aged 3.

The eighth child, George, 12, was burned so seriously he may die.

Dr. Joseph Webster, who attended George, said the boy's condition was critical and that he was threatened by pneumonia.

Coroner Investigating

Coroner F. W. Shane of Gallia county went to the scene to conduct an investigation. He said Probate Judge J. S. Clark recently called White into court and threatened to put the children in a county home. White, at the time, was quoted as saying he'd "rather see the children dead than in a county home."

County authorities, investigating the blaze, said they would consider the theory of wholesale murder in their inquiry. They pointed out that it was possible White fired the cabin, while his children slept.

George, though semi-conscious from burns, escaped from the cabin and staggered and crawled to the home of Gilbert Lane, a quarter of a mile away, for help.

Find Cabin in Ruins

The cabin was in ruins when Lane and other neighbors arrived and the heat was so intense it was impossible to rescue the victims.

The family moved into the cabin last Friday after being ordered to leave Gallipolis. They were extremely poor and occupied the cabin as squatters.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. George lost consciousness after summoning Lane, without saying how the blaze started.

The blaze broke out about 8 a. m., Lane said. The cabin, typical of farm structures in the Swan creek section, burned like dry tinder.

Mother Dead Three Years

The children's mother died three years ago when the twins were born.

The cabin was on the property of Joe Johnson, a farmer. Johnson said he protested when the family occupied his cabin but that he relented and let them remain because of the scarcity of work.

All the victims were burned almost beyond recognition.

DRIVER'S BILL SET FOR VOTE

Placed on Calendar Along with Gas Tax and Probate Court Proposals.

ACTION DUE THIS WEEK

Drivers' Responsibility Plan Aimed To Eliminate Irresponsible Motorist.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 7—Joint resolutions proposing to carry out Governor White's plan for a committee investigation of unemployment insurance, the revived auto drivers' responsibility laws an agreed plan for reallocating part of the gasoline tax and the new probate code were ready for the house and senate calendars today.

Committees in both branches reported these measures out last night.

The auto drivers' safety responsibility law had once been killed by the house motor vehicles committee, but was revived last night.

Sponsored by Association

It was sponsored by the Ohio state automobile association and seeks to drive the irresponsible motorist from the highways by forcing him to provide proof that he can pay for any damage he causes.

The plan for reallocating the last two cents of the gas tax reduces from $4,000,000 to $2,500,000 the amount that was to have been taken from the state highway department by the Secrest-Bostwick bill.

It gives an additional $1,500,000 to the townships, or $1,100 each; $500,000 additional to the counties and around $500,000 additional to the cities on the basis of motor vehicle registration. The bill will be amended in the senate highways committee tomorrow.

Probate Law Approved

The house judiciary committee unanimously recommended passage of the bill for a recodification of the state probate court laws. The bill, prepared by a committee of the Ohio State Bar association, after three years of consideration, had passed the senate.

The principal amendment requires that all probate judges must be attorneys.

Failure appeared to be written across Ohio's efforts to enact a congressional redistricting bill today, and indications are that the

HARDING GRIDDERS IN SPRING PRACTICE

PRESENT SQUAD OF 30 TO BE INCREASED WITHIN SHORT TIME

Fundamentals, Theory Will Occupy Major Share of Attention of Team.

After a brief layoff for an Easter vacation Harding High school grid coaches will reassemble their charges on the silk mills field for resumption of spring football practice. Approximately 30 aspirants for berths on the 1931 team have already been issued equipment and this number is expected to be swelled considerably within a few days.

Coach Dewey Bohyer is pursuing a new course this spring in an effort to develop a stronger team than has represented Harding for several seasons. No general call for candidates has been issued and none will be, Bohyer said last night. Instead, Bohyer and his assistants are picking likely looking candidates from the ranks of the school and getting them out for practice. Bohyer believes this plan will enable the coaching staff to pursue a more efficient method of instructing the candidates.

Intensive study and practice of fundamentals and theory, Bohyer says, will occupy the major share of time in spring practice. He hopes to play one or two regular games between picked teams before the close of the spring practice sessions.

Of the first string members of the Harding squad of last season only six are lost to the team next fall. Bush, quarterback, Newby, Alspach and Sloan, ends, Smith, tackle, and Wright fullback, will graduate this year. Eckenbarger, ponderous guard of last year will be missing, having shifted his residence to New York state.

Some of the linemen returning for play this year are Clay, Ling, Williams, Jevas, Pickerel and Guthrie. Backfield men back in the harness are Keller, Hunt, Lindsey, Morgan. Part of these men will not report for spring training but all are expected to be ready for competition in the fall.

Training Camp Highlights

By The Associated Press

IMLAY, Nev.—As the Pittsburgh Pirate train rolled eastward today, Manager Jewel Ens made up his mind about two reserve jobs. This summer, if anything happens to any of his star outfielders, the Waners and Comorosky, it will be Pete McClanahan or Forest Jensen who will be called from the bench. Both these youngsters have banged the ball hard and have demonstrated that they are above the average in fielding ability.

• • •

LOUISVILLE—Eddie Roush has notified Dan Howley, Cincinnati Red pilot that he will join the club in Cincinnati, Thursday, prepared to resume his old position in center field. Roush, who was idle last season because he and the New York Giants management could not reach a salary agreement, has been working out with the Hartford club of the Eastern league, in Macon, Ga., to get in condition while the Reds came north.

• • •

NEW ORLEANS—Eddie Morgan, Cleveland's star first baseman a year ago, is to be tried out at third in an effort to do something for the Tribe's disappointing infield. If Lew Fonseca, who won Morgan's job while the latter was trying to retire from baseball, returns to batting form the Indians at least will have a hard-hitting infield. The team says goodbye to New Orleans tomorrow night.

COLUMBUS—The first and second Red Sox squads joined forces here today to await Manager Shano Collins' promised shakeup. Shano is tearing his hair over the showing of his first squad at Indianapolis and Tom Winsett is certain to be one of the objects of his wrath. ATLANTA—Manager Donie Bush is all set on his regular Chicago White Sox outfield, but a lively battle is going over the reserve posts. Carl Reynolds, Smead Jolley and Mel Simons are Bush's choices for regular duty, with Fred Eichrodt, Bob Fothergill and Johnny Watwood, in the contest for two other jobs.

PHILADELPHIA—The champion Athletics and the aspiring Phillies called a truce today in their city series, but expect to resume hostilities tomorrow. ROUGH AND TUMBLE TACTICS LIKELY TO FEATURE MAT BOUT

Browning Meets Eustace in Shovel Program; Kruskamp in Semi-Final.

The installation of guard rails in front of the first row of spectators tonight at the Steam Shovel wrestling show has been suggested to prevent the possibility of injury to ringside fans who come to see Jim Browing and Allan Eustace clash in the main go of the bi-weekly wrestling show. When two average wrestlers meet in a match conducted under normal conditions such a precautionary movement would probably be rather absurd but Browning and Eustace are not average wrestlers and this match is not being conducted under normal conditions.

In the first place Browning and Eustace harbor no feelings of love for each other. Of course neither of them would like to see bodily injury done the other—that is, unless he could be the one to do it. That's the difference between these two and average wrestlers. The fact that the match tonight is strictly a grudge battle resulting from Browning being disqualified two weeks ago for throwing Eustace and the referee out of the ring is a good explanation as to why it is not being conducted under normal conditions.

Breathing Defiance

Brownnig makes no secret of the fact that Eustace is in for a lot more slams, bangs and what not, while Eustace is not backward in stating his intentions of massaging the mat with Browning. Both have ideas of what the word "roughness" means that differ from the definition listed in Mr. Webster's dictionary and both intend to put into action their own pet ideas

It took three city policemen to settle the battle between the same two two weeks ago. If both of them carry out tonight what they say they intend to the Ohio National guard will get a hurry call about 11 p. m. tonight.

Kauffman to Referee

Cleat Kauffman, himself a light-heavyweight wrestler of no mean ability has been engaged to act as third man in the ring tonight. Kauffman is expected to be able to handle the match in such fashion as to keep some semblance of wrestling about it and not let in go into a slam-bang battle where wrestling is second thought. Whoever is the third man, it looks like one of the best matches seen here in some time.

Hardy Kruskamp and Roy Dunkin will meet in the semi-final 30 minute match with two other preliminaries preceding this bout. Bing Flanagan and Dick Griffin both of Marion will open the show with a 30 minute bout. Roy Rhinehart of Mt. Gilead will take of Carl Bightler of Marysville in the second prelim.

The first preliminary will commence at 8:30 p. m.

NOT SATISFIED!

Risko Beats Heeney But Fans Boo Efforts of Both Fighters.

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, April 7—Fight fans of this city today were discussing the first heavyweight affair they had seen in over two years, and the verdict was far from enthusiastic.

Johnny Risko and old Tom Heeney, the two big boys chosen to put the 200-pound class back in good standing hereabouts, failed to supply enough action to suit the crowd of 5,500 that turned out. They hooted in the early stages.

Risko put on a brisk rally in the closing rounds to earn the unanimous decision of the three judges and to avenge a previous loss to the "hard rock." Heeney ripped in some good punches in the fourth and fifth rounds and was himself staggered a couple of times near the close, but neither ever was in danger of a knockout.

Heeney, at 209½ pounds, had a 19-pound weight advantage over the Cleveland baker boy.

DUNLAP IN LEAD

Princeton Star Paces Field in Amateur Golf Tournament.

By The Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7—An 18-hole score of 38-34—72 gave George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, Princeton star and intercollegiate champion, a five-stroke lead today at the half-way point of the 36-hole qualifying round of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

While a drizzling rain was playing havoc with the scores of many of his opponents, Dunlap played in one over par.

T. Suffern Tailer of Newport, R. I., and Richard S. Tufts of Pinehurst, were tied for second place with 77. The best Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., the defending champion, could do was to card a 79 to tie with M. P. Warner of Chicago.

Robert G. Morrison of Pittsburgh, and Sidney W. Noyes, Jr. of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., bagged 78's.

The final 18-holes of the qualifying play were scheduled for today.

Johnny Gerry of Marion will meet Al Barker of Bellevue in the eight round semi-final; Red Bolton of Marion will face Mars Oabecks of Bellevue in a six-round preliminary and Ike Corbin of Upper Sandusky will take on Young Boggs of Marion in a four round bout at 150 pounds. Two other four round prelims are on the card.

The Marion fighters have been working out at the Bucyrus armory for two weeks and are reported in good shape for the bout. B. A. Jacobs, American Legion promoter, is staging the show.

UNIQUE RECORD

By United Press.

NEW YORK, April 7—Artie Loughlin, Fordham university pitcher, today boasted the unique baseball record of being the winning and losing pitcher in the same game.

Loughlin pitched yesterday for both the Fordham varsity and Reserves in a 7-inning contest, actually toiling 14 innings. The Scrubs won 4 to 0.

Artie faced 61 batters and although nicked for 29 hits, fanned 12 batsmen.

Except for the fact that Loughlin piched for both teams and was allowed a pinch hitter for his times at bat, the game was a regulation contest.

ELIMINATES SELF

Billy Evans Doesn't Want Job of American League President.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 7—Billy Evans would rather direct the Cleveland Indians than be president of the American league.

In a formal statement, Evans last night definitely eliminated himself from consideration as president of the league to succeed the late Ernest S. Barnard. Evans followed Barnard as general manager of the Cleveland club.

With Evans' self-elimination, Will Harridge, secretary under both Barnard and Ban Johnson, becomes the most mentioned possibility for the pesidency.

Godfrey was scheduled to meet Ivan Michaeloff, but he was injured in a recent bout and was unable to appear.

PRIMO CARNERA TO MEET JACK SHARKEY IN NEW YORK FIGHT

Report Says Pair Will Be Signed for Bout at Ebbets Field in June.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7—The American says today it has learned on excellent authority that Jack Sharkey will right Primo Carnera on June 10, at Ebbets field, providing Carnera can gain reinstatement by the New York state athletic commission. Jimmy Johnston was named as the promoter.

Such a match has been under discussion for several weeks, despite that apparent obstacle. Carnera is under contract with the Madison Square Garden corporation to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling match, but Bill Duffy, American representative of Carnera, and his manager, Leon See, contend the garden contract was broken when the Hearst milk fund withdrew from the Schmeling-Stribling match last week.

The American says Duffy is prepared to go to court to force Carnera to fight for Johnston.

AN 8-ROUND LESSON

Bushy Graham Gets Technical K. O. Over Johnny Farr in Columbus

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 7 — Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., former bantamweight champion, gave Johnny Farr of Cleveland, a lesson in boxing here last week for eight rounds before the bout was stopped by Referee Jack Dempsey and awarded Graham the bout on a technical knockout.

Farr was down eight times in the eight rounds, five of these knockdowns coming in the second round. He was down in the eighth when Dempsey stopped the fight.

A few more than 6,000 persons paid $10,000 to see the show which was sponsored by the veterans of foreign wars.

After refereeing a bout at Wheeling, W. Va., tonight, Dempsey will retire from public life for at least two months on the order of his physicians. Dempsey announced that doctors at Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., who examined him recently, had advised him to rest in order to recuperate from nervousness and a persistent loss of weight.

STOCK SHARES IN DOWNTREND

Decline on Big Board Continues into Third Week; Slump Moderate.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7—The almost uninterrupted shrinkage of share values progressed well into its third week today, although its face value was slow and faltering.

The decline was moderate, and the volume of trading was again meagre. The volume of stock for sale was too small to be encouraging to the bears, but fresh dividend cutting and expectation of a general display of first quarter earnings statements left the bull camp all but deserted. Short covering however, caused a sluggish rally in the early afternoon.

There were numerous declines of 1 to 5 points. U. S. Steel lagged a point to a new 1931 low at 136, then recovered.

Business and trade news was an inconclusive character. One custom smelter offered copper at 9⅛ cents a pound, the 36-year-low record established last Autumn, but the copper market was so dull the price had little significance. Silver again weakened, losing ¼ of a cent an ounce. If the mission of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of Eng and has anything to do with the sorry plight of the white metal, endences of it are lacking. Mr. Norman at least denied that he discussed silver with President Hoover.

Preliminary figures indicate that last week's petroleum statistics will show one of the best reductions in crude output of the year, which is encouraging at a time when representatives of the various oil states are meeting in Washington to devise means of stabilizing the industry.

Wall street is hearing much discussion of wage scales at this time, and despite the stern opposition to reductions which has been expressed in important industrial and governmental circles, the depression has worn on so long that some bankers and business executives seem to despair of maintaining current rates.

Credit was more plentiful. Call money renewed at 2 per cent, after climbing to 2½ yesterday, and was in good supply.

FOREIGN PRICES AFFECT GRAINS

Liverpool Quotations, Auspicious Domestic Reports Cause Slump at Chicago.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7—Affected by Liverpool quotations lower than expected, grain prices here went downward early today Bears laid stress also on auspicious weather and crop conditions in domestic winter wheat territory Opening ⅛ cent off to ¼ up, wheat afterward showed an additional sag. Corn started ⅛@¼ lower, and subsequently held near to the initial range.

Although bear leaders conceded that many things could happen before maturity of the United States winter wheat crop, world conditions as emphasized by action of the Liverpool market after the Easter vacation were asserted to point decidedly lower prices. Bulls nevertheless took special notice of persistent reports of threatened unusually severe damage this season from insect ravages. A new feature being advices about cut-worms in Canada.

Farmers in Saskatchewan and Alberta, big wheat producing provinces, were reported as being officially warned of serious infestation of cut-worms because of the exceptionally mild winter and extensive dry areas. Cut worm damage was estimated at 50 per cent in some sections of Canada during 1930, and greater losses this season were looked for in the event of average weather. Indications of a dearth of new export business in North American wheat, however, largely offset talk of probable crop damage Corn and oats dragged lower with wheat.

Provisions reflected downturns in hog values.

MIMES' LAST PLAY OF SEASON TO BE AT OHIO THEATER

"You and I," by Philip Barry, To Be Presented Wednesday, Thursday.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

The last public play of the Marion Mimes season will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Ohio theater. Philip Barry's "You and I," one of his recent successes, has been selected as the Mimes farewell spring show. Public productions will not be resumed until September or October, although one and two act plays will be given for the membership in May.

Dress rehearsal was held Saturday night until 4 a. m. Sunday, to be exact, and everything is in shape for the opening night. New scenery has been rented for one of the three acts.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. Wilson B. Tway, who played the role of "Isabelle," in "East Lynne."

The cast of the play is as follows: W. W. Clarke, "Maitland White"; Mrs. Rodney B. Hume, "Nancy White, his wife"; Charles Weil, "Roderick White, their son"; Miss Jean De Wolfe, "Veronica Duane, Roderick's fiancee"; Paul Knappenberger, "J. T. Warren, a businessman"; Wilson B. Tway, "Goeffrey Nichols, a novelist"; Miss Betty Crissinger, "Etta, a maid."

There will be no matinees at the theater on the two days of the Mimes show. The curtain will rise at 8:15 p. m.

"THE W PLAN" IS BRITISH PICTURE

A story of what might have happened! Sounds like a Grimm's tale, but "The W Plan" at the Marion tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, is a spy picture of the World war, produced by Elstree, a British film making company.

The cast is of course, foreign to theatergoers on this side of the Atlantic. The picture is concerned with the workings of the British and German intelligence departments.

Brian Aherne and Madeleine Carroll have the leading roles. Graham Seton, author of "The W Plan," is really Lt. Col. G. S. Hutchinson who was a member of the British Intelligence service during the war. He earned his D. S. O. and M. C. for distinguished service.

NORMA SHEARER'S PICTURE CONTINUES AT PALACE THEATER

"Strangers May Kiss" Is Good Entertainment, Reviewer Finds.

"STRANGERS MAY KISS" starring Norma Shearer makes a good evening's entertainment. The picture continues at the Palace tonight and Wednesday. Perhaps not as tangling as Shearer's, "The Divorcee," and "Let Us Be Gay," the picture still has its moments and they're grand.

Miss Shearer is a very modern young woman who finds a woman cannot "kiss and ride away." She is in love with a world rover, handsome Neil Hamilton, who wants his freedom at any price. She goes away with him on a trip, and when tongues begin to wag realizes that the world has its limitations of morality. From then on her life is one of gay abandon, and when Miss Shearer goes abandoning, the men had better watch out.

Robert Montgomery is the ingratiating lover who follows her, determined to make her quit her folly. A wire from Hamilton turns everything upside down and she flees to him in Paris. He is one of those who "doesn't marry that kind," she learns after he has heard of her career abroad.

But this is a picture that ends happily ever after, although we won't tell you how this comes about. Comedy and newsreel fill out the bill.

ONION GROWERS ASK FOR AID FROM STATE

Hardin County Residents Want Fund for Experimental Work.

Special To The Star

KENTON, April 7—An appeal has been made to the state finance committee of the state legislature by onion growers of Hardin county for an appropriation of from $30,000 to $32,000 during the coming years for experimental work on the muck land of Hardin county.

Appeals were presented at the meeting at Columbus by Dr. C. C. Williams of Wooster, director of the state agricultural experiment station, W. C. McGuffey of McGuffey, Carl Price of Kenton, and Neil Ahlefeld, Kenton farmer.

Pointing out that more than $500,000 worth of onion seeds were recently destroyed by maggots, McGuffey declared that scientific experimental work is needed for the purpose of combatting the maggots. It is necessary he said to change the present system of farming to diversified crop-raising.

An experiment station to be conducted on 10 acres of the muck purchased for that purpose is sought. Plans include the employment of a farm foreman and three scientists the erection of a house for the foreman, and purchase of some farm equipment. Several laborers would be employed.

SIGNPOSTS that lead to Genuine Satisfaction

These standard tests make every buyer an expert judge

At last a hitherto vague highway has been plainly marked.

Kelvinator has dared publish the Standard Rating Scale because Kelvinator has the value to meet it in every detail. We ask you to come and judge for yourself. See a Kelvinator, apply every one of these searching tests, and prove beyond doubt that Kelvinator is the logical choice for lasting satisfaction. We are willing to let you "sell yourself" without a word from us. Call and make this analysis, for the sake of your own satisfaction in years to come.

● STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

● Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?

● Has it plenty of food and shelf space?

● Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?

● Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration).

● Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?

● Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?

● Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food).

● Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?

● Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?

● Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run).

● How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours).

● Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?

● Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?

● Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?

● Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?

● Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

AUTO DRIVERS' BILL SLATED FOR VOTE

Placed on Calendar Along with Gas Tax and Probate Court Proposals.

Buckeye state's two additional congresemen, allotted by congress under the last census, will have to be elected at large.

The senate yesterday turned thumbs down on not only its own redistricting bill but also, that which has been recommended by the house federal relations committee.

So divergent appear to be the views of assembly members on how the new congressional districts shall be composed that it is generally considered doubtful if those views can be reconciled in time to permit enactment of a redistricting bill before recess Friday.

The senate fought it out over the bill presented by the sub-committee of senate elections committee as a substitute for the bill sponsored by Senator L. L. Marshall, Republican of Cleveland. When the final vote was taken, it showed only 13 votes for the measure and 17 against.

The vote on the house redistricter was brought about by Senator Robert L. Rohe, Republican of Seneca county, offering the house bill as an amendment to the senate bill. This was rejected by a vote of 13 to 14.

Among those voting against the gerrymander bill were Rohe and Senator Bower of Rushysivania, the two representatives of the districts that includes Marion.

POTTER AGAIN LINKED WITH LAND FRAUDS

Investigators Continue Hunt for "Higher-Ups" in Cleveland Murder Case.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 7—A new link connecting Councilman William E. Potter, who was murdered Feb. 3, with those concerned in the city land frauds of 1928 was before investigators today as they continued the hunt for a second gunman in the slaying.

Chief County Probation Officer W. B. Dillon said Robert Bunowitz asserted Potter gave him funds to give Harmon G. Atwater, who at that time was hiding in Chicago as a fugitive from justice. Bunowitz and Potter were tried jointly on a charge of harboring Atwater and Bunowitz was convicted while Potter was freed.

Atwater was the alleged "go-between" in the playground purchase in which the city was defrauded of $30,000.

Bunowitz's new story was that Potter said the Schooleys (former Councilman Liston G. Schooley and his son, now serving terms for participation in the graft) were in trouble and that it was important that Atwater remain away from Cleveland. Atwater was later captured in Chicgo.

By The Associated Press.

ST. CLAIRESVILLE, O., April 7—His ears and finger tips practically torn off by robbers who tortured him in an effort to locate his money, Andy Yelan, 55, was found unconscious today in his home at Barton. His condition was reported critical.

In a conscious moment Yelan said three robbers invaded his home late last night, and held him prisoner until he lost consciousness because of the great pain of the torture inflicted. He said the men demanded to know the hiding place of $2,000 he received recently from the sale of some real estate.

The victim said the robbers used a pair of pliers to pinch his ears and fingers.

BUCKLEY DISBARRED FOR SIX MONTHS

Former State Treasurer Entitled to Leniency, Judge Decides.

state treasurer, Judge Clevenger said "the record of the prosecution introduced does not reflect on his honesty. The evidence shows him to have been scrupulously honest in all his dealings with the public monies and northing was shown to the contrary in his dealings with clients. If he is permitted to continue in this practice, it is evident his clients will not be wronged in that regard."

Punishment Adequate

The punishment Buckley suffered "has fully atoned for any wrong he did society," said the court.

In conclusion, Judge Clevenger said "a conviction of a felony must be met with some kind of discipline. The only question for the court is the nature of the discipline that should be administered. The court feels that a mere reprimand, either public or private, would not meet the necessities of the case, nor does the court think that a severe discipline is called for. It must be enough to remind all lawyers that they must be always circumspect in their conduct and even on the score of goodfellowship must not depart from the path of rectitude. The court believes that a suspension for six months from the date of entry will be sufficient in this case and such will be the order."

Buckley resigned as state treasurer when the then governor, Myers Y. Cooper, threatened impeachment proceedings after he had been indicted for conspiracy to bribe a federal dry agent. He was convicted and sentenced to serve two years, six months and one day in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Recently he was released on parole.

DEATH CHAIR LOSES IN MICHIGAN VOTE

People of State Decide Overwhelmingly Against Execution for Murder.

By The Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 7—A proposal backed by Governor Wilber M. Brucker to reestablish the death penalty for murder in Michigan was defeated overwhelmingly in yesterday's election.

The death penalty was abolished in the state 84 years ago, with life imprisonment remaining as the most severe punishment for murder. There has not been an execution in the commonwealth for 100 years. Treason is the only offense punishable by death.

The proposal that an electric chair be set up in the state prison was defeated in a statewide referendum by a majority which probably will reach 55,000. With 1,771 precincts out of 3,407 reported, the vote was: For 138,573; against 163,168.

Former Mayor Charles Bowles of Detroit, was defeated in an attempt at a political comeback. He ran against Judge John P. Scallen for judge of the recorder's court. Bowles resigned from the bench to run for mayor 18 months ago. He was elected and then was recalled after serving six months. In yesterday's election he sought to regain his place on the bench.

Parsimony or Procrastination?

No property owner denies himself the protection of adequate fire insurance merely to save a few dollars. But there are many who go along under-insured month after month, postponing action until it suits their convenience.

We are in business to make it convenient for you to have full protection always.

FARM RELIEF

Too much ACID

people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It's usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

GLEAMY WHITE TEETH AND A SWEET BREATH

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 8

THE sidereal operations for this day point to lively and intriguing events and happenings. With Mercury and Neptune in trine aspect with Luna, much activity of a variable, subtle and complicated nature may be looked for, albeit the general complexion of affairs is benefic. New projects, contracts and dealings with secret bodies, close corporations, or strategic complexion may be manipulated to satisfaction and success.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of lively and intriguing events, with new business, fresh contracts and negotiations with "mergers," "rings" or secret societies flourishing. Strategy and secret agreements may be advisable. A child born on this day may be intellectual, literary, subtle and profound, leaning toward occult or singular methods, and gliding through espionage, strategy or diplomacy rather than direct action.

RADIO WHISPERER

Little Jack Little, radio star who is well known for his Here 'Tis, will be the guest artist over WEAF and nation wide NBC network April 7. Little Jack measures a mere five feet, four inches, weighs 130 pounds but he has a powerful whispering baritone which has brought him hosts of friends.

Jack Little To Interpret Four Songs Tuesday

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

LITTLE JACK LITTLE'S distinctive piano playing and his whispering baritone voice, will be brought before the microphone Tuesday when he appears as guest artist with the Happy Bakers.

This versatile musician will interpret four numbers, three as vocal solos and one, "Mighty Lak' A Rose," as a special piano solo. Frank Black's "Singing Violins," and a novel instrumental group will give their version of "Three O'Clock In the Morning."

The program will come over NBC's WEAF hookup at 9:30 p. m.

* * *

The most widely-discussed symphonic composition of recent years, the "Bolero," will be presented by the Howard Barlow symphony orchestra when it broadcasts over the Columbia network Tuesday at 9:30 p. m.

* * *

It's a fact—Five fly swatters, mounted on the ends of several long sticks, and rotated by an electric motor, produce the desired wind noises for radio broadcasts. Wintry blasts for the program of the Empire Builders are produced in this same manner.

* * *

Richy Craig, jr., will again turn to the melodramatic burlesque in his program Tuesday over the Columbia chain at 10:15 p. m. Henry and George dedicate their program Tuesday at 9 p. m. over the Columbia network to Cincinnati.

Directory libraries in 29 Ohio cities, as well as in a number of out-of-state cities, receive the local directory regularly.

There are 567 pages in the new directory, including 343 pages of names of Marion residents, business firms and corporations and nine pages of names and addresses of Marion county taxpayers.

Included in the general information about Marion contained in the directory is the following: "Marion is located in the center of the great industrial district of this country and is surrounded by a rich agricultural region. The city is located on five railroads, 270 miles east of Chicago, 700 miles west of New York, 45 miles north of Columbus, 100 miles southwest of Cleveland, 100 miles west of Akron, 143 miles north of Cincinnati, and 434 miles east of St. Louis.

"Marion's citizens are of the highest type. It has fine living conditions, splendid schools, beautiful church buildings, theaters, parks and golf courses and is an ideal residential city in every particular."

MAKES SECOND CALL IN GARDEN CONTEST

Mrs. Grover Snyder Asks Use of Vacant Lots for Club Project.

A second appeal for owners of vacant lots in the city to contribute use of the lots in garden contests to be sponsored by the Women's Federated clubs was made this morning by Mrs. Grover Snyder, chairman of the conservation department in charge of the contest.

Detailed plans of the contest are being worked out this week, and will be completed by Saturday, Mrs. Snyder said.

Several lots have already been turned over to the club for use as gardens in the contest. The movement was started to give relief to the unemployed.

Anyone willing to contributed the use of a vacant lot in the contest is urged to call 2676, Community Fund headquarters, or Red Cross, 2439.

New state and municipal bond issues to be offered in New York City this week aggregate $68,550,944 against $15,186,118 last week, and a weekly average for the year to date of $57,500,353. No wonder taxes are high!

There was a decided change in the temperature of New York City between the time of Mayor Walker's departure and his return, if press reports are to be credited. On his arrival home Sunday, he found the city decidedly cool.

Ferdinand Cassell improves on the Tom Marshall dictum by saying that "what this country needs more than a good five-cent cigar is a good ten-cent cigar." It might be well for Ferdinand to keep in mind that old one, "We lessen our wants by lessening our desires."

From Bogota, Colombia, comes apparently authentic reports that a revolutionary movement has gained a foothold on the western frontier of Venezuela. Well, wasn't it about Venezuela's turn to stage a fall revolt?

Dr. M. C. Myerson, of the New York City department of hospitals, intimates rather strongly that too many tonsil and adenoid operations are being performed. Isn't it just possible that the doctor has wasted the two perfectly good words, "tonsil" and "adenoid?"

The New York state crime commission reports that racketeering is costing the people of the United States between $12,000,000,000 and $18,000,000,000 annually. The disappointing phase of so many of these commission reports is that they dwell almost wholly on the disease and make no attempt to offer the cure.

Twenty of the twenty-one persons lynched in the United States during 1930 were Negroes. We of America are prone to speak of race prejudice in other lands; it is apparent that we are not entirely free from it here in our own.

Paul C. Wolman, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, holds that universal peace is dependent upon worldwide acceptance of a plan to draft capital, industry and man power in future wars. Of course, this is theory, but it's a cinch that it will come a lot nearer working out in practice than the majority of plans offered looking to world peace.

Breaking into the First Methodist church of Charleston, West Virginia, the intruder carried off the big Bible left upon the pulpit by the pastor. Whoever it was must have an awful penchant for Bible study to go to all that trouble.

As a result of its April survey in which 800,000 of the members of the organization reported, the American Federation of Labor expresses the opinion that the bottom of the business depression has been reached and says that "in the fall we may look forward to the beginning of a more definite climb upward toward prosperity." In a word; cheer up, the worst is over.

President Hoover's Commissions.

The chief executive of a large business concern must understand the secret of keeping himself ready to meet big problems by delegating little problems to those under him. Or, as it was expressed tersely on one occassion: "The big boss won't be found looking for dust."

The President of the United States embodies this accepted practice in the commission system, which amounts merely to assigning the right men to the right work in government. The President himself would hardly have time to assume the responsibilities of the complicated business of governing if he lacked ability properly to organize and re-assign the functions of his office.

President Hoover, quite naturally, believes strongly in the commission plan of government. There is nothing unprecedented in his belief; other presidents have appointed numerous commissions also. It happens, however, that the increasing complexity of government has made more commissions necessary, which has been the signal for Mr. Hoover's enemies to criticize both his belief in the commission plan and his employment of it.

The attack, manifestly, is unscrupulous and unfair, particularly in the light of a recent disclosure that Mr. Hoover personally has raised a considerable sum of money to finance commissions dealing with social trends, child health, home ownership and illiteracy, projects lying outside the clearly-defined duties of the nation's chief executive. These "extra" commissions are the President's way of striving for ideals he has cherished for years. Few more idealistic gestures are recorded in the annals of the White House, and the public will not fail to give them due recognition along with the organization of other valuable commissions.

Chief Channels of Expenditure.

Statistics were cited in these columns, yesterday, to show the steadily-mounting cost of state and local government in this state. Figures just given out by the national industrial conference board make plain that what is true in Ohio in this connection is likewise true throughout the country and that in the fiscal year, 1930, the last year for which complete figures are obtainable at this time, the cost of local government alone in the forty-eight major political divisions of the land represented fifty-four per cent. of the cost of all government—federal, state and local. The cost of state government in that fiscal year was $1,526,000,000 and the cost of local, $6,813,000,000, the total of $8,039,000,000 being $529,000,000 in excess of the total for the year 1927.

Highway construction and maintenance ranked first in state expenditures and education came next, the expenditure for the former in the forty-eight states being $581,000,000, or 31.6 per cent. of the total state expenditure, and the sum expended on education being $512,000,000, or 27.9 per cent. of the total expended by the states. These figures do not include any sums received by way of federal aid.

This order was reversed in the expenditures for local government, education coming first. Local expenditures for education amounted to $1,043,000,000, which was about one-third of all net expenditures. The local expenditures for highways amounted to $1,128,000,000. Next in order came interest and debt redemption, which aggregated more than $1,000,000,000 and represented more than fifteen per cent. of the grand total paid out for local government.

Thus it may be seen that the aggregate of the sums expended for highway, educational and interest and debt redemption purposes by local governments represented approximately two-thirds of their total expenditures and that the cost of these three items to both state and local governments in 1928 represented almost five-eighths of the cost of both state and local government.

There is a constant outcry throughout the country as the result of the ever-increasing burden of taxation. These figures made public this week by the national industrial conference board show the chief three causes of the burden against which complain is steadily directed. There are many expenditures which result from the betrayal of the public's interests by weak-kneed legislators who are swayed by organized clamor, but the heavy burden of taxation and the high cost of living are both largely due to the public itself. It votes issues of bonds which, principal and interest, must be met. It demands networks of improved highways for which, directly or indirectly, by taxation or by licenses, it must pay. It insists on this costly improvement or that, and then grumbles when the time for settlement comes. The great majority of us, up to eighteen months ago, were living beyond our means; the most of us very probably still are. And what we, as individuals, have been been doing, our state and local governments have been and still are doing, with the result that the various states and municipalities of the land are experiencing the utmost difficulty in raising revenue with which to operate. This is true in Ohio, it is true here in Marion and it is true all over the land.

And, incidentally, the federal government itself is faced by a deficit estimated as high as $800,000,000. Its credit is unimpaired. So much can not be said for that of many of the political divisions.

A Moscow story recounts that twenty American college graduates are in charge of more than a million acres of farms in Russia to advise the soviet government how to carry out its plan to raise 30,000,000 hogs for slaughter in 1932 to swamp the world bacon and lard markets. There are many ventures in which Americans would be far better engaged.

Occasionally a real piece of news comes from the Latin republics to the south of us. By way of illustration, the cables bring a story from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to the effect that the Argentinians held an election Sunday without the customary accompaniment of rioting.

The two big tobacco store chains having ended the cut-rate war which has been in progress for two years, not only cigars and tobacco may be expected to advance in price in time, but cigarets immediately. But what we are wondering about is what effect the latter advance will have on the demand for sycamore leaves.

The death rate in Ohio in 1929 was 69.8 to the 100,000, the percentage of decline since 1910 being 53.6; the percentage of decline during the twenty-year period being 64.8 in population centers and 33.4 in rural sections. If we get the thing correctly, this means that the fight against tuberculosis is being waged far more successfully in population centers than in the country districts, whereas the rather general belief has been that the contrary was true.

A hunter up in New Hampshire shot at a deer, and the bullet from his rifle not only killed the deer at which he aimed, but also passed through it and killed a second deer in line with the first which he didn't see. Here's a case of an absolutely unintentional breaking of the law.

By the use of the spectograph, a scientist of the University of California claims to have demonstrated that free electrons travel between the atoms at a speed of 1562 miles a second while bound electrons, more closely in fixed orbits, gyrate at a speed of 90,000 miles a second. Far be it from desire of ours to question the claims of science, but we simply can't help remarking that a speed of 90,000 miles a second is moving right along.

The people of Chicago were bilked out of $24,476,000 in 1929 by short-weighing according to an announcement from the office of the state's attorney up there, the statement being based on the result of a survey made by operatives of the office in which 557 of the 1,415 places visited short-weighed them from forty to sixty per cent. Chicago is in process of a new experiment of morals or a new brand of scales of weights and measures which is apt to end in a free fight.

THE FIRST ONES IN.

Editorial Opinion.

GUARDING THE WAGE LEVEL.

Reports of an organized movement to reduce wage scales in industry, now that prices have fallen, are discounted by Mr. Hoover's denial that he knows of any such conspiracy. But, whether they are based on fact or merely on suspicion, it can do no harm at this time to reemphasize the doctrine that high wages far more than swollen profits are the foundation of modern prosperity. This the President has done in his authorized statement that he will continue to advocate the maintenance of wage scales at the prevailing level, a statement in which he also expresses his gratification at the manner in which "leading industries" and organized labor have kept the agreement to cooperate in the economic emergency.

This agreement, entered into at the White House in the fall of 1929, pledged our industrialists not to cut wages and union labor neither to strike for higher pay nor resist with violence the necessary adjustments which reduced production would entail. At the bottom of it was the conviction on both sides that the wage scales in force represented a hard-won standard of living essential to mass consumption.

It would be foolish to argue that in individual instances, as in some of the building trades, wage scales are not too high, or that industry as a whole can still afford the pay rolls to which it was committed in the boom years before the depression befell us. It can not, and it has had to resort to lay-offs and to part-time employment to make both ends meet. But these are temporary expedients which are abandoned automatically with business recovery. Wage-scale reductions, on the other hand, persist. The ground lost is rewon with the greatest difficulty, and in the mean time the entire economic structure suffers from a faulty distribution of wealth which narrows the market for goods and retards natural expansion.

The hope for better times lies in the consumptive power of the masses, which is in direct ratio to the wages they earn. Industry owes it to itself to guard this power. It should resist the temptation to impair it for immediate ends.—New York Herald Tribune.

A CITY IS REDEEMED.

The miracle of disease-prevention performed at Havana, Cuba, following the Spanish-American war, in the Canal zone during the building of the Panama waterway, and at Guayaquil, Ecuador, has been duplicated at Ostia, a thriving city fifteen miles from the capital of Italy. The current issue of the magazine, Hygeia, gives an account of the transformation of the malaria-infested district into a health resort. Italians who found the city uninhabitable before its swamps were drained and its mosquitos were exterminated, now go to Ostia for sea bathing and recreation.

When Rome was mistress of the world, Ostia was a busy seaport with a population of 50,000. It became malaria-infested and eventually depopulated. Attempts were made to redeem the city in the fifteenth century, when the Romans built a fortress at the mouth of the Tiber, but all who went to Ostia were stricken with the malady. In 1884 the Italian government sent to Ostia 600 natives of Ravenna who were familiar with swamp country, but most of them perished.

The historic work in sanitation done by Dr. William C. Gorgas at Havana and in the Panama Canal zone encouraged the Italians to make another effort to repossess the city. Within the last few years drainage projects have removed the stagnant pools where the mosquitos thrived. Also the discovery that the little top minnow, known to scientists as the Gambusia affinis, was the natural enemy of the mosquito, helped along the work. Waters that could not be drained easily were stocked with the top minnows and they worked unceasingly for man's salvation. The United States public health service supplied the Italian government with the minnows in the beginning, but these effective agents for health are now grown in many countries. The reappearance of Ostia on the map is a triumph for sanitary science.—Seattle Times.

Hunger Often Causes Crying.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Infants often cry for no other reason than because they are hungry. They cry for other reasons, of course, but hunger is the chief cause.

Children and infants are rapidly growing animals. They require food in order to grow and develop properly. Children are always hungry, but fortunately they have a way to notify their elders when food must be had. The only way an infant can register its hunger is to cry. Usually it does not hesitate to make its demand.

Hunger pangs may be increased after the weaning of the infant.

This is due to the removal of the mother's milk which contains so many nutritive elements. This nourishment must be provided by wise mixtures of foods. Supplementary feedings may be required to give the baby necessary nourishment, even before weaning.

Crackers, crusts, hard whole-wheat crackers and similar selected food may be given once daily to an infant between the ages of six and eight months. When eight to ten months old, such feeding may be given twice daily and three times daily, after reaching ten to twelve months. After one year of age, this food may be given with every meal. After the first year, bread and butter may be given once or twice daily.

The marked advantage of giving infants fruit juice has been recognized only recently. The vitamin content value of fresh fruits can not be overestimated. Because of such feeding, rickets and scurvy are now rarely seen in infants. In addition to being rich in vitamins, these juices contain important miners which are essential to the welfare of children.

Fruit juice may be given to all infants as early as the third month. It should be given daily from six months on. After the baby has reached the ninth month, the soft pulp of baked apple, prunes or ripe pears may be given. Never sweeten the fruit. It will develop its own sweet syrup when properly cooked.

After seven months, a tablespoon of cereal gruel may be given to the infant before a regular feeding. Frequently this is all that is essential in overcoming stubborn constipation.

As early as the eighth month, vegetable soup may be given. I can not overstress the importance of vegetables. They are indispensable in the diet of the child. It is most important, too, that children acquire a taste for vegetables.

Young mothers are frequently astonished at the variety of foods which can be given to an infant. When these foods are utilized at an early age the mother's problem is greatly lessened and the baby is sure to be more content.

The First Zeppelin.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In 1863 the titled young German, Von Zeppelin, who had served as a military observer with the Union armies, made an ascension in a captive balloon near St. Paul. "It was while over St. Paul in the balloon," he wrote fifty-two years later, "that the idea came to me that successful dirigible flights could be made." For many years he reflected over the idea of an elongated, cigar-shaped balloon which would forge through the air and conquer the winds, to which all other balloons were subject. As early as 1784, the Frenchman, General Meusnier, had made flights in an elongated balloon. Sixty-eight years later Henri Giffard constructed an elongated balloon, 144 feet long, thirty-nine feet in diameter, which achieved a speed of seven miles an hour. But no one had conceived the idea of dividing the balloon into separate, gas-filled compartments; nor were these balloons called "airships."

In 1873, Zeppelin read a little pamphlet by Heinrich von Stephan, entitled "World Post and Aeronautics." This gave him the final impulse to draft plans for his dirigible rigid airship. For fifteen years he kept his plans a secret from every one except his wife. No doubt his interest was attracted by the temporary success of F. A. Gower, an American living in France, who afterwards lost his life in making one of his experiments. With a fish-shaped balloon filled with petroleum gas and driven by a bronze steam engine of five horsepower, Grower actually flew across the English channel in 1883—an epochal chapter in the history of the dirigible. The dirigible balloon built by Colonel Renard for the French army the next year was no mean achievement; but it was a semi-rigid affair, and had no compartment system.

In 1887 Zeppelin wrote his first report to the King of Wuerttemberg on the possibilities of airships. He laid down three indispensable conditions; ability to navigate against very strong air currents, to remain in the air without landing for at least twenty-four hours, and to carry a heavy weight of men, supplies and ammunition. He set forth the important role the dirigible was destined to play in transportation, in warfare, and expeditions of exploration.

At the age of fifty-two, presumably because of his independent spirit, he was retired from the army. His career seemed at an end; but in the large sense, it had not begun. He engaged an engineer, however, and began to make the necessary machinery and designs for a rigid dirigible. He talked so constantly of the subject that he came to be called the "crazy count." Finally after three years of intensive work, he produced his first airship, L. Z. 1. It was 419.84 feet long, with a diameter of 38.37, and contained about 400,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas. The motor generated only fifteen horsepower. To exhibit the enormous development in this field, the L. Z. 127, which made the world tour in 1930, was virtually ten times the size of Zeppelin's first ship.

The initial experiments, while demonstrating the possibilities of this mode of transportation, were regarded as a failure by the public, as narrated by Margaret Goldsmith in her interesting biography of Count Zeppelin. Little directive ability was exhibited by this first airship. Zeppelin made another, raising money from every quarter and almost pauperizing himself; but the experiments with this one ended in disaster. His career seemed truly ended now; his fortune gone, the public's confidence unwon. Success finally crowned his efforts of many years, in the flights of his third airship L. Z. 3, on October 9 and 10, 1906. A speed of sixteen yards a second was attained. Zeppelin had won his great fight—at the advanced age of sixty-eight. It is one of the most superb scientific achievements of the centuries.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Cordoba University.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Americans, though themselves natives of a comparatively young country, are inclined to regard South America as a continent of infantile republics. To the traveler in the Argentine the discovery of Cordoba comes with something of a shock.

This venerable and charming old town contains the second oldest university in the Western hemisphere. It began its existence in 1613, half a century after San Marcas of Lima, Peru, was founded.

Educational authorities will tell you that Cordoba is to the Argentine what Harvard is to the United States and what the Sorbonne is to the culture of old France. This university, which survived the succession of political and economic storms which beset Argentina for centuries, has an enormous enrollment. In its medical college alone there are 2,500 young men and women.

The outside of the university is plain, but to enter and wander through the fine old patio, the class-rooms and the immense library, is like strolling down the corridors of the ages. For here, embedded in the walls is the atmosphere of antiquity.

This old university is the symbol of that exciting and fast-rising continent, South America. Here the great Argentine prepares her sons and daughters for the stupendous struggle for a front-line place among the nations of the world.

The university's library contains many of the oldest books in the Western hemisphere. They lie on the shelves in impressive array. Most of them are histories of the church and the saints and many are bound in gorgeously decorated bindings.

However, if you talk to the faculty—and Cordoba's faculty is a very learned and cultured group, indeed—you will hear the same story that is told by modern professors all over the world.

A gentleman at a dinner the other night suddenly asked a waiter for a glass of water. Tasting it he pushed it toward Frank Craven sitting next to him. "Tastes funny," he explained to the actor and inquired: "What's the matter with it?" Craven sipped it cautiously. "It's been cut!" he announced.

I often wonder if others are somehow intrigued by peeking into delicatessen windows filled with cheese. To me there is something indefinably romantic about the green-veined Gorgonzola, the ruddy Cheddar, fatly cut Dutch, Gruyere, Port-Salut, Stilton, Camembert and even the lowly Limburger. And there a broccoli bouquet on ice for the first slob who refrains from cracking that like attracts flies. —Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

When Ohio Became the Buckeye State

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It would probably not be possible to point to any definite date and say at that time Ohio became known as the Buckeye state and its people as Buckeyes, just as it would be impossible to say when the Indianians became known as Hoosiers, the Illinois people as Suckers, the Iowa people as Hawkeyes or the Carolinians as Tarheels.

It is true that the buckeye tree grows abundantly in our state, but it is not exclusively characteristic of it. The buckeye is found in profusion also in Indiana, plentifully in Illinois, and frequently in both Kentucky and West Virginia. But the tree and its pecan nuts no doubt impressed themselves on the minds of migrants crowding west over the National road in its early days, and they carried the nuts to their western homes and sent them to friends left back in the East, and they thus became widely known as characteristic of the Ohio country.

But the buckeye began to be linked with Ohio in song and story quite generally in the remarkable hard cider political campaign of 1840 when that sturdy old Ohioan, William Henry Harrison, was the Whig candidate for the presidency. It was a campaign of songs and slogans, and in many of them the buckeye was frequently referred to and for the first time probably was applied to the people of the state.

Tom Corwin, another noted Ohioan of the same date, was a character about whom many songs were written, and some of them have been preserved which present the use of the word as the name of the people if not the state. In the early forties there are records of uses of the word buckeye in the East as an adjective characterizing the persons referred to as from Ohio. At the opening of the next decade, S. S. Cox, then a well-known figure in the nation's politics, published the story of his travels abroad, under the striking title of "A Buckeye Abroad," helping no doubt to fasten the name upon the state and its people. But the use of the word must have been quite common or it would not have been generally understood.

Fakers Must Fail In Their Absurd Appeals To the Fat

Fakers have flourished in their appeals to the over-fat. Not many remain. Some of their methods were harmful, some absurd. All have perished quickly in the test.

One reason is that medical science has found a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a lacking gland secretion which must be supplied. Doctors the world over now supply it, and excess fat in late years has been going fast.

A world-famous medical laboratory embodies this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. Not to oppose doctors, but to supply their best help in a very economical way. Thus Marmola opens this right way to millions who might otherwise go wrong.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. The use has grown and grown, while the frauds disappeared by the scores. Now in every circle you can see the results. Your own friends can recite them. Slender figures are the vogue.

Marmola, in every box, gives the formula complete. It also tells you why the fat goes, why new vim appears.

If you have been enticed by fakes, by silly claims, go now and use what doctors use. Combat your fat in the right and scientific way. Gain normal figure, normal vim in Nature's way. Then tell your friends about it—they should know. Go now and order a $1 box from your druggist. Read the book, watch the many good results.

"For over five years it seemed like everything that I enjoyed eating would disagree with me," says Miss Helen S. Darosz, 4645 S. Wood Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I would suffer from indigestion until the gas would crowd my heart.

"I had very severe pains at times; got so I had very little appetite and was almost afraid to eat. I did not get any real help until a friend persuaded me to get some Pape's Diapepsin. Now I eat candy, or anything I want; even foods that used to make me ill. If I feel the least discomfort a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin makes me comfortable in a minute."

When thousands like Miss Darosz are coming right out in public to praise Pape's Diapepsin, there seems no reason to doubt that it does what is claimed for it to help people who suffer from acid-dyspepsia, and the heartburn, gas, nausea, belching, headaches, dizziness, etc., caused by this common ailment. "You Wife-thieving Rat!"

LIKE a fiery torch from Cupid's bow—that's how Orpha shot into my hungry, adolescent heart—the very first night we met!

We were married—insanely happy—at first. My first job—bank messenger—fifteen dollars. Orpha flared up—I looked for more money—in a factory—struggling to meet her debts.

Then I hurt my hand—infection—laid off. Orpha had to work—she sulked—grew nasty—stayed out nights. Jealousy surged in my heart. What a ghastly mistake—all this.

That fateful night—Orpha gone—but where? Separation—divorce—murder—FREEDOM—toyed in my soul. At dawn—home she came—with another man. I snarled—leaped at his throat—Orpha threw herself at me—I swung around—and . . .

Into what terrible tangle did the mad infatuation of youth knot the lives of this headstrong boy and fickle girl? Did it end in divorce—only to release Orpha from the sacred duty she shirked—betrayed?

Or did that heart-crushed lad end it all in a bloody murder—a road that dips into the valley of hell and ends at the hangman's noose? As I sat in that ill-lit, cold and ...dirty room, I wondered how long ...it would be before I joined them ...in mad-house alley, as that corridor ...of madmen's cells was called.

Later, more convicts were brought to this prison men, boys, negroes and a Chinese. With them came a guard who feared himself and gazed at nothing.

We sat about suppressing yawns, fidgeting, half-mad of ennui, anxiety, misery and boredom. For hours we sat. For nightmare days and weeks and months and years we seemed to sit, in a cowed silence broken only by the buzzing of a fly until I broke down and screamed my soul out until in panic-terror staring around me and at the grated I found that my screams were silent.

And here I lapsed back into the state of semi-coma in which I had been since my head was injured until, one day, I realized that it was I, John Dacre Waye Vanderleur St. Clair who was sitting in a prison cell reading a Bible, and had just read the words

"Vengeance is Mine I will repay said the Lord

I rose and paced my cell, eight feet by four by seven

Vengeance I was Vengeance

"'Venegeance is Mine," saith the Lord' Very well then, I was the Lord's Vengeance God's own Dedicated to vengeance.

"'Vengeance is Mine,' saith the Lord 'I will repay.'

I was His instrument of vengeance, through whom He would repay And who in all this world a fitter instrument'

The Lord and I would work together, I helping Him, He helping me.

But Heaven helps those who help themselves, and I must fight, tooth and nail, against inertia and acceptance of my fate lest I begin the descent of the steep and slippery path that leads men down to that terrible nut-house alley.

From that hour, my periods of complete sanity grew longer and more frequent, and my memories of that time are more numerous and clearer.

Men have written whole volumes telling of their lives in prison I could with difficulty fill a chapter. Incidents and details of my escape, like those of my entry into prison, I remember plainly enough. Between stretches a desert of time, featureless and monotonous as a desert always is.

I suppose I should, after all, have gone mad in jail, or have committed suicide, but that I had some justification for the hope that is said to spring eternal in the human breast.

It had been my experience that money will buy anything, except the few things worth having.

It was not long after my return to clairty of mind that I received a message by the underground or "grapevine" route:

"Guard Murphy markets Trusty Moroff finks"

This cryptic information filled me with joy, for it meant that a guard whom I will call Murphy was in the habit of "obliging" prisoners for a consideration, and might be expected to consider propositions—ranging from the introduction of tobacco, chocolate, files, and weapons—to the smuggling of letters, carrying of information, and even assisting attempts at escape.

To make the fullest use of the services of such a man, I had not the slightest objection.

If Guard Murphy were in the habit of taking risks for gain, he should certainly take them on my account.

One day a big husky fellow with a cruel face whispered to me from the corner of a scarce-opening lip:

"Oi'm Guard Murphy. Look in yer Boible tonight," and passed on.

When alone in my cell at 6:30 that evening, it was with almost trembling fingers that I took the book from its shelf and searched it.

Near the middle I found a tissue-paper message obviously from "Uncle," of whom more anon, telling me that when Guard Murphy came and said one word to me, that word would be the name of the place where a high-powered motor-car was, and always would be, waiting for me.

I set to work, planned and plotted, night and day, sent letters to Uncle and received answers.

With Guard Murphy, I had brief and occasional—but pregnant—speech.

One day I decided that I was ready, and that every night I would put my fortune to the test.

And I felt that I should succeed.

Was I not Vengeance? God's Vengeance?

His own applied instrument

"I will repay."

I, perhaps naturally in such circumstances, lost sight of the fact that I was a self-appointed instrument, and while quoting "Vengeance is Mine," forgot another truth, Man proposed—and God disposes . . .

I am not the only man who has escaped from an American prison, but I am probably the only convict who has ever been in whole and sole control of one— and had it absolutely at His mercy and disposal.

For that is exactly what happened, and, as a matter of actual fact, it was amazingly easy and simple.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tyzmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tyzmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of nervous shock disappears.

Tyzmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, lumbago, exposure or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY was Tuesday, and it was bright and bammy. There isn't any more snow, and my mother was out digging around, after I had let Jubilee down and put on my short britches.

My grandfather says that everyone likes to dig around in the spring, everyone but him. He says they like to start a garden for weeds to grow in. He says in Canada there is a city where they haul all the snow off the streets in the winter and pile it between a couple of mountains and it stays there all summer, and people use it to make ice cream with.

After I got my cows milked and everything and the bunch had came and the girls were in the house watching us eat, Feeble got my mother to put on her new hat again so we could all see it, and she got my ant to put on hern, and she said they were beautiful, and they both looked pleased and didn't know she was stringing them. I wish my mother wasn't like that. If Feeble was a boy and done my mother that way I'd give her a wallop. She said she was kinda sorry summer was coming because I looked better in my overcoat than any boy she ever saw, and my ant said she hadn't noticed it, so I got it and put it on, and then my ant said it would make me look better if the collar came to the top of my head, and Feeble said, "Oh, do you think so?" His feet would still show. So then I knowed she was stringing me and when I took my coat off I made a swipe at her with it, and she had tooken my ant's hat to take it to her room for her, and she parried with the hat and it went up in the air and came down on my pancakes which were covered with sirup, and I almost got licked. I would've if it hadn't been for my mother. She said the sirup would come off all right. My ant was so mad she almost breathed fire.

I said I was going out hunting snapping turkles after school and my grandfather asted me what anyone with an ant like I have got wants with a snapping turkle. I told him maybe I could sell it to a restaurant and get some chink for Fourth of July. And my father said: "Always looking for a way to spend money." My unkle didn't say anything. He just feeds his face and says nothing since Saturday when he spent all his wages for silk underware.

My grandfather said a newspaper is trying to find out who are the 12 greatest ladies in the country, and now that my unkle has got silk underware he thinks he will send in his name. My unkle said another paper is trying to find out who are the three greatest lires in the country and he is going to send in my grandfather's name for all three of them, and then him and my father went to work. I didn't say anything. Whatever I would say would be wrong.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Just in Time to Interrupt a Quarrel.

THERE was so unusual a note in my young son's voice that I forgot the astonishment I had felt in finding him and Roderick in the room I had fitted up for Henry and William. Katherine had said that they were with my father at the lily pool watching the queer fish which built their own homes and I had left her but a minute or two after that conversation. Evidently they had just come upstairs and I looked around instinctively for my father, because I knew that in our present stress of anxiety concerning the threat of the Chinese, he would be but a few seconds behind them.

Yes, his head was just appearing on the stairs, and I went swiftly toward him.

"Everything all right Father?" I asked. "I see the youngsters have come in."

"Oh, you've seen them" he said in a relieved voice which betrayed the undue anxiety for the children which has been his since the night of the pretended burglary at the bank and the bizarre actions of the men responsible for it. That fantastic affair, nerve-racking despite its harmlessness—which we later discovered had followed so closely upon the mysterious threat of the Chinese concerning Marion's lock box that we all had been shaken, but none of us had been so upset as had my father. His great anxiety had led him to install a system of protection for the family which bordered upon fussiness, but in which all the rest of us dutifully acquiesced.

"Yes, they're in the boys' room"

"Oh" I might have known."

He hesitated, his eyes attentively regarding me, as if he meant to add something to his comment. Then, evidently thinking better of it, he put his hand upon my shoulder.

"Are you too tired—can you look after the children for a little while?" I should like to lie down."

"You're not ill?" the fear which is always in my mind, voiced itself in frantic speech.

"No, no," emphatically "The sun affects me a bit now and then—that is all—that old trouble, you know I suppose I never shall be rid of it."

I knew only too well what he meant, for I had witnessed two or three partial attacks of illness caused by his too long exposure to the sun. He had been the victim of a fearful sunstroke during one of his trips to the Orient, and never had fully recovered from it.

"Let me call Katherine, or get you an ice pack—or——"

The pressure of his hand on my shoulder increased and he swung me back and forth playfully.

"Foolish child!" he apostrophized, smiling down at me. "I forbid you to do any of these things, for I do not need them. You are distressing yourself uselessly. All I need is a nap, and I shall be perfectly all right for dinner. You will see a valiant trencherman."

"I hope so," I said worriedly, and he stooped and kissed me.

"Run along to the youngsters, now," he said. "And, Margaret——"

"Yes, Father," as he stopped.

"Nothing that will not keep for awhile," he told me smiling, and evidently reconsidering the impulse for speech. Then he went slowly down the hall and into his room, without looking back. If he had turned his head he would have seen that I had not moved from my place. I was worried about him, and I was also puzzled by his hesitancy, his obvious postponement of some comment he meant to make to me. That it concerned Junior and Roderick I was sure, and surmised that it also had to do with the room I had fixed up for Roderick's older brothers.

I was led back to the door of the room by the sound of my son's voice and his own as he was talking and before I reached it I had understood what my father had meant to say and had also interpreted the queer tone in Junior's voice as he was saying "Yes, the swell hang out and have the trenchant company. Other kids have all the luck."

The two strange boy were on each side of the room. They longed for one like it. Were they by chance resentful because their room adjoined Roderick's? Or answer to my question gave me the answer to my question.

I say they have, Dicky's young sister replied. The best we get is a room next to the baby's. We'll get as well be month old Bessie can use."

See here Roderick's voice was suddenly truculent. My sister isn't a brat and you dare call her one.

That Roderick had not meant his epithet to apply to the baby I was sure. But Junior's jealous truculence upon anything pertaining to his small sister had made an assurance which his cousin could not dodge.

"Who's goin' to stop me" he drawled.

Me Junior's voice was hoarse.

"Yeah" I wondered where Roderick had heard the drawled and moss-grown retort which he was uttering. "You and how many more?"

I came to myself with a rush. I had been so astonished at the conversation of the small boys that I had not realized what might be the consequences of the dispute. I flung open the door and rushed into the room just as Junior lunged toward Roderick with luxuriously doubled fists. I was almost tempted to permit those chivalrous fists to reach their mark for Roderick was chanting "Brat' brat' brat' but of course I could not "take sides" and I caught each culprit by the collar and swung them around squirming and astonished to face me.
